War Child 'Live to Learn' campaign update

On Wednesday of last week Yr 10 pupils made their way across London to Crouch End in order to participate in the latest stage of the War Child 'Learn to Live' campaign. Students took part in an 'Art Attack' style event where they used their bodies to spell out the name of the campaign. The students also had chance to chat with students from the other three schools involved in the campaign and hear what they are doing as part of the twinning aspect of the campaign. While celebrity ambassador Carey Mulligan was unable to make it for family reasons as Georgie Abbott stated "I'm not really sure who she is and its not about her anyways, its about the campaign". Footage and photos of the day are scheduled to be included in Monday's edition of the Evening Standard.

Instrumental lessons

This week, lessons with our team of fantastic peripatetic teachers got underway with record numbers of students signing up. We currently offer Drum Kit, Piano and Guitar lessons. Later in the term there will be a "Battle of the Bands" event featuring many of these students working in small groups to learn songs and get them to performance standard.

Thanks to all staff for your support in helping some forgetful students to remember their lesson times!
